NJ Realtors Donates Lifeguard Boat to Lavallette Beach Patrol

Trenton, N.J. (July 15, 2016) — Yesterday, July 14, New Jersey Realtors donated a Hankins-style lifeguard boat to the Lavallette Beach Patrol ahead of the annual William Kemble Lifeguard Tournament, held on the beach at Philadelphia Avenue in Lavallette.

The donation was a gesture of support for the community, which was directly impacted by Superstorm Sandy. Though the storm was almost four years ago, the town continues to rebuild and is still dealing with the effects of the disaster.

“As Realtors, we’re not just helping our clients buy and sell houses, we are active participants in the communities we work and live in,” said 2016 New Jersey Realtors President Tg Glazer. “Immediately following Superstorm Sandy, the Lavallette community and neighboring towns rallied together in unprecedented fashion. These are the types of communities and neighborhoods that promote homeownership and we are honored to be a small part of helping this community survive and thrive.

New Jersey Realtors is hopeful this will be the first of several other donations to worthy communities and causes throughout the state.
